

HOB Software Licensing Program

You can purchase HOB Software through a number of flexible and cost effective licensing programs, which are described below.

Software Licensing Programs

Full Version

Contains the license for a workstation and, upon request, a CD including electronic documentation and a manual in German, English or French.

User License Packages

Contains the workstation licenses purchased. The sliding scale prices are dependent on volume.

Client Licenses

Another alternative is client licensing. A fixed number of licenses is defined for an indefinite period of time. For one set price you can call up a lot size as large or small as you wish on an as-needed basis.

Concurrent Licensing

By combining the HOB COM Host/Server solution with the HOBLink product family, you can purchase a concurrent licensing package. You define the number of users who are permitted to access the host simultaneously. Then, any number of users in the company can work with the HOBLink Software; the only limitation is that the maximum number of simultaneous accesses may not be exceeded.

Server License Model

The power and number of processors alone determine the price for this license model. You can choose how many users you wish to connect to each server.

Subscription

HOB offers Subscription Contracts for all products in the HOBLink family. This includes all new versions of that software product for the term of the contract (automatic update service).

Maintenance

HOB offers support contracts for all the HOBLink Family products which provide you with the availability, stability and compatibility (software update service) you expect from a leading software manufacturer.

HOBLink Support Contract – including Automatic Version Upgrade

This contract offers a wide spectrum of support services (consultation regarding installation, configuration, set-up and configuration of printers and extended WWW access), and an update service which includes an automatic upgrade to future versions. In this way, you receive a cost effective solution and ensure that the user always has the newest version of the software product in question.

HOBLink support contracts come in three product categories, the price is determined by the number of licenses needed. Before finalizing a support contract, you are required to update to the most current version.